

Angelea Strider
Board of Directors | Victory For Veterans Foundation

Current Role at Victory for Veterans

In 2016, a small grassroots group decided to organize a national event that honors Veterans past, present, and yet to come by continuing the march of the feet of service men and women and their supporters by raising awareness to the current, and most relevant, issues at the time for the Veteran community. Angelea was contacted in the earliest stages of that effort due to her approach on advocacy and a hand up. When VFVF and VMOA merged, Angelea was selected as one of the elected Board Members to ensure the missions of each be fulfilled and has remained connected to the mission statement of serving Veterans and their families on an international forum through advocacy, resources, and her compassion ministries.

Career Summary

Angelea's calling into advocacy started at a very tender age. She was always able to see needs and speak to and for them in a way that gave room for them to be met more efficiently. In 2014, Angelea began really working all her skills to be funneled to the transitions of our veterans and military. In her short career, she has aided hundreds upon hundreds of persons through networking and her ability to approach difficult questions and answers with finesse and is very passionate about giving a hand up to those in need and willing to reach out. While she specializes in crisis and transitions, she is also a major influence in personal development and growth.

Current Position

Preschool teacher by day; International Advocate for Veterans and their Families always. She is working on her education and hoping to introduce a new transition program within VFVF over the coming year.

Veteran Connection

Angelea is the daughter of a Marine, and a strident civilian supporter.

Family

Angelea lives in Kentucky with her three brave, wise, and strong daughters.
